Your Old Age Pension.
The average man in this country is spending every dollar he earns, and the consequences are he is facing poverty. It is an everyday occurrence to hear of some man who in his younger days had saved money dying penniless in his old age. Ninety per cent of the men of today who have attained the age of sixty-five years are depending for support either upon public charity or their children.

These figures are alarming. Start today to accumulate a fund for old age with a very little self denial. Open an account in a savings bank and deposit regularly every month one-tenth of your salary for ten years, and the result at 4 per cent will be as follows:

Monthly salary.	One-tenth deposited.	Am't. saved with int. in 10 years.
$40	$4.00	$589
60	6.00	737
80	8.00	885
100	10.00	1,106

Through the above saving method you would not be compelled in old age to depend upon public charity or relatives.—V. M. Powell in New York World.

Surfaces of the Body.
In his book entitled "Disease and Its Causes" Professor William T. Councilman of the Harvard Medical school shows in a striking fashion the enormous extent of the various surfaces of the body. In man the extent of surface within the lungs is estimated to be ninety-eight square yards, and within the alimentary canal between seven and eight square feet. An average adult has twenty-five trillions of red blood corpuscles, and the surface area of them all is about 3,300 square yards.

CHINESE PRINTING.

Queer Old Ancient Methods Are Still Used by Many Natives.

Chinese hold that the art of printing was discovered in China about fifty years before the Christian era. Until the discovery of the art of paper making, A. D. 95, they printed on silk or cloth cut in the form of leaves. The method employed to this day by many native Chinese printers is substantially as follows:

No printing press is used. The delicate nature of the Chinese paper will not admit of it. When the blocks are engraved, the paper is cut and the ink is ready one man with his brush prints a large number of sheets in a day. The block to be printed must be placed perfectly level and secured firmly. The printer has two brushes, one of them stiffer than the other, which he can hold in his hand and use at either end. He dips it into the ink and rubs the block with it, taking care not to moisten it too much or leave it too dry. If it were wetted too much the characters would be blurred; if too little they would not print.

When once the block is got into the proper condition he can print three or four impressions without dipping the brush into the ink again.

The second brush is used to rub over the paper with a small degree of pressure that it may take the impression. This it does easily, for, not being sized with alum, it receives the ink the instant it comes in contact with it.

It is only necessary that the brush should be passed over every part of the sheet with a greater or smaller degree of pressure and repeated in proportion as the printer finds there is more or less ink upon the block.—Los Angeles Times.

THREE RACIAL INSTINCTS.

One Reason, Perhaps, For the Interest Taken in Baseball.

How shall we explain the absorbing interest in baseball and football? In baseball we have a game combining three of the most deep seated racial instincts—the instinct to throw, to run and to strike. During untold periods of the life history of our race survival has come to him who could throw the straightest, run the swiftest and strike the hardest. To throw something at something is almost as natural for a boy as to breathe.

Throwing, batting, running, are no longer of any service in this age of mind, but they were the conditions of survival in the distant past. Baseball reinstates those ancient attitudes and brings a thrill of cherished memories. Any one who has ever held a bat in hand and assumed the expectant attitude of the batter knows the peculiar thrill which is explained only by recalling that his distant ancestors in just that attitude beat down with a real club many an opposing foe, whether man or beast, and those who held clubs in this position and struck hard quickly survived and transmitted this instinct.

The awkward throw of girls, like the left arm throw of boys, is widely known. The plays of girls reveal their own set of instincts recalling the habits of primitive. "We are the descendants of those men who could throw and those women who loved children."—From "The Psychology of Relaxation," by G. T. W. Patrick.

Luck.

Luck is that which has made your successful neighbor what he is and has conspired to prevent you from becoming what you would like to be. Luck is good or bad, according to whether you are contemplating your neighbor's success or accounting on your own failures.

Luck is a handy little thing to have around, for if it does not benefit you it at least affords you an objective kicking point. Also, the mere mention of its name relieves you of the necessity of making many embarrassing excuses. Luck is a barb which may prevent disaster from poaching on your domains, but if it does not do this you at least have the satisfaction of impaling upon it all reasons for your defeat.

Luck is perhaps more unlucky than you are.—Judge.

East Indian Monkeys.

A naturalist who has traveled in the East Indies says: "The effect on the monkeys of man's appearance is most interesting. The expression of their emotions is certainly almost human as they sit and stare at him, coughing and snarling with anger and contempt, drawing back their heads and throwing the hand before the face with a gesture of abhorrence and other movements indicative of shocked and outraged feelings. But predominant is the expression of absolute horror, which, coming from these we consider our still degraded cousins, is to our superiority very aggravating."

Wonderful!

"Just think of it! A whole splendid dinner—soup, fish, entree, joint with two vegetables, dessert and cheese—for a dime!"

"Wonderful! Where can you get such a dinner at such a price?"

"Nowhere; but just think of it!"—Exchange.

No Help.

"Few actors are satisfied with their newspaper notices."

"Nor can they ever be. Of necessity the name of the actor must be printed in smaller type than the name of the newspaper."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Concerning Dreams.

Scientists assure us that the longest dream we ever have—even the dream that seems to carry us on through several days—actually occupies no more than a single second!

Some authorities maintain that if any one of our dreams were to last longer than a single second we should die. Other authorities are convinced that we do not dream at all when we are asleep, but only in the fraction of time when we are as Shakespeare has expressed it "twixt sleep and waking."

It is also argued that dreams are nothing but distorted ideas and images passing through the drowsy mind and being no more than extraordinary variations of things that have happened or of things that we have thought or read in our waking moments; they can have no possible association with our future. But, on the other hand, dreams have been credited with prophetic meanings since the days when the world was young, and dream books are still published and purchased and consulted by the million.

Seven Wise Men of Greece.

The seven wise men of Greece were Thales of Miletus, Pericles of Corinth, Cleobolus of Lyndus, Chilo of Lacedaemon, Solon of Athens, Bias of Priene and Pittacus of Mitylene. Some fishermen of Miletus sold a draft of fishes to a bystander. When the net was drawn in it contained a golden tripod, and the purchaser claimed it was his, while the fishermen contended that they sold only the fish that might be in the net. The dispute was referred to the oracle of the Delphi, who awarded the tripod to the wisest man in Greece. Thereupon it was taken to Thales, who declined it and suggested that it be given to Bias. He in turn refused to accept it, and thus it was successively declined by all the seven, and they were thereafter known as the seven wise men of Greece.

Unversatile Nature.

Marie, the eight-year-old hopeful of a certain household of this city, was seated at the breakfast table one morning. As usual, eggs were served. Now, either Marie was not hungry or she had grown tired of the inevitable bill of fare, for very earnestly she lifted her eyes to heaven and exclaimed:

"I wish to goodness hens would lay something besides eggs!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Blessed Ignorance.
